

SUGGESTIONS TO VOTERS FOR SATURDAY'S PRIMARIES.

Attorney General W. H. Stead has issued suggestions given below to voters in connection with Saturday's primaries which should be carefully studied by all who are qualified to vote. Colors of the primary ballots in Rock Island county will be: Democratic, yellow, republican white; prohibition, blue; socialist, pink.

The polls will open at 6 o'clock in the morning and will remain open until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Between these hours you are entitled to absent yourself from any service or employment in which you are engaged for a period of two hours for the purpose of voting. Because of so absenting yourself you will not be liable to any penalty, nor will any deduction be made in your wages or salary. You must, however, make application for leave of absence before primary day. Your employer may specify the hours during which you may absent yourself.

You must be a qualified voter in the precinct in which you offer to vote. You must be a male citizen of the United States, of the age of 21 years or upwards. You must have resided in the state of Illinois one year, in the county 90 days, and in the precinct 30 days prior to the primary.

You must state to the primary judges the name of the political party to which you belong. If you refuse to state the name of the political party with which you affiliate, you can not vote at the primary.

You are not qualified to vote with a particular political party if you have signed the petition for nomination of a candidate of another political party, when the candidate for whom you signed the petition is voted for at the primary.

If you have signed the nominating papers of an independent non-partisan candidate, you are not qualified to participate in the primaries of any party, unless such independent non-partisan candidate stands for an office for which candidates are not nominated at the primary.

In voting, give your name, residence and party affiliation to the primary judges.

If your vote be not challenged, one of the primary judges will give you one ballot of the political party with which you declare yourself affiliated.

Upon receiving a ballot, retire, at once, alone, into one of the voting booths, and prepare your ballot. You can not prepare your ballot outside the voting booth.

On the primary ballot there will be no circle. All the candidates for nomination for a particular office, for any one party, are grouped under the name of the office. To the left of each name is printed a square.

To vote, you must make a cross (x) in the square to the left of the name of the candidate of your choice under each office, except the office of precinct committeeman.

The names of the several offices are printed in capital letters. Immediately under the name of each office you will find, in small letters, directions as to how many candidates, under that office, you are to vote for. You should not, under any circumstances, vote for more candidates, under any one office, than you are directed, on the ballot, to vote for. If you vote for more candidates, under any one office, than you are directed, on the ballot, to vote for, your ballot, as to that office, will not be counted.

You are entitled to vote for a person whose name is not printed on the ballot. If you wish to vote for a person whose name is not printed on the primary ballot, write his name under the name of the office for which you wish him nominated, and, except for precinct committeeman, place to the left of and opposite the name thus written a square, and place in the square a cross (x). If you fail to make the square, and to place in the square a cross (x), the name of the person thus written in can not be counted, except for the office of precinct committeeman.

The name of the person whom you write on the ballot should be a member of and affiliated with the political party with which you vote. If you write the name of a candidate of an opposite political party on your primary ballot, your ballot, as to that candidate, will be counted as a vote for the nomination for the political party with which you vote. It cannot be added to, and placed upon the tally sheets of, the opposite political party.

The senatorial committee of your political party fixes and determines the number of candidates for representative in the general assembly.

bly which your political party will nominate at the primary. You can only vote for as many candidates for that office as the senatorial committee determines to nominate.

If your senatorial committee determines to nominate one candidate for representative in the general assembly, you are entitled to vote for one, and only one, candidate for the nomination for that office; if said senatorial committee determines to nominate two candidates for that office, you are entitled to vote for two, and only two candidates for the nomination for that office; if said senatorial committee determines to nominate three candidates for that office, you are entitled to vote for three candidates for the nomination for that office.

The determination of the senatorial committee appears on the ballot, in small letters, under the heading "Representative in the General Assembly." Under that heading you will find printed, in small letters, directions as to how many candidates, under that heading, you are entitled to vote for.

If you are directed, on the ballot, to vote for two candidates for representative in the general assembly, you should put a cross (x) in the squares opposite the names of two candidates, and no more. If the directions say to "vote for one," mark the name of one candidate, and no more.

Do not, under the heading "Representative in the General Assembly," write anything, such as 1 1/2 votes, 2 votes, or 3 votes, after the name of any candidate. If you do, your ballot, as to that office, cannot be counted.

You cannot cast more than one vote for any one candidate for the nomination of representative in the general assembly.

You may vote for a member of your political party, who resides in your precinct, for precinct committeeman. The names of candidates for precinct committeeman will not be printed on the primary ballot.

At the bottom of your ballot, under the heading "Precinct Committeeman," you will find a blank space. In this blank space you may write or attach the name of the person of your choice for precinct committeeman of your precinct.

In voting for precinct committeeman, you are not required to place a square or a cross (x) to the left of the name which you write or attach.

Your choice for precinct committeeman is fully indicated when you write or attach, in the space provided for that purpose, the name of the candidate of your choice.

You are entitled to vote for only one candidate for precinct committeeman.

If you spoil a primary ballot, you should return it to the primary judges and get another. Do not vote a torn, defaced or mutilated ballot.

Before leaving the booth fold your primary ballot so as to conceal the marks, and so as to show the official endorsement on the back, and hand it to the primary judge, in charge of the ballot box, and leave the enclosed space as soon as you have voted.

If you declare upon oath that you cannot read the English language, or that by reason of physical disability, you are unable to mark your primary ballot, you will, upon request, be assisted in marking your primary ballot by two primary election officers, of opposite political parties, appointed for that purpose. These officers will mark your ballot as you direct. Heavy penalties are provided for any election officer who reveals how you vote.

You are not entitled to assistance in marking your primary ballot unless you make oath as to your inability to read the English language, or as to your physical disability. Intoxication is not regarded in law as a physical disability.

CHILDREN ENLISTED IN PLANTING OF TREES TO BENEFIT OF MISSOURI TOWN

The prairie town without trees is cheerless and unattractive. Few things add more to the attractiveness of a town than rows of thrifty shade trees planted along its streets.

Village and town improvement societies and civic associations have done much to promote tree planting, especially in the prairie regions of the middle west. Where trees adapted to local conditions have been planted, and where the citizens have cared for them and taken an interest in them, the results have been remarkable.

A public spirited man residing in a city in Missouri has been doing commendable work along this line, in connection with the Civic Improvement league of his city. In the year 1901 he planted a large quantity of seeds of various trees in nursery rows. He carefully tended the young seedlings, and, a few years later, dug them up, labeled them, and turned them over to the school children, free, upon condition that they should be planted and cared for.

Since the trees started life with the beginning of the present century, they were called "century trees," and this gave them additional interest.

Each child was given printed directions, which were headed as follows: "Ornament your homes—plant Century trees, seedlings of 1901—they are living monuments; watch them develop—they began with the century, and the century, as it advances, marks the record of their age year by year."

Those who received trees were directed to dig holes two feet in diameter and one and one-half feet deep. They were told to keep the roots of the trees moist and covered until planted, and see that all torn ends of roots were cut off smoothly and to cut back the side branches about a quarter or third of their length, or, if the tree was a straight shoot without branches, to cut back the tip a few inches. This pruning was to balance the loss of roots in digging up the trees.

In planting the tree, they were told to spread the roots out into natural position, and to set the tree about an inch deeper in the ground than it stood in the nursery; to use good rich soil, but to allow no fertilizer or manure to come into direct contact with the roots; to work the soil carefully about the roots, and to water the tree plentifully every few days after it was set out, and during the dry weather of summer.

Five or six thousand trees were given away in this manner. Two or three trees were given to each child who asked for them, and almost every child did so. There were many species, and naturally some died, but few children lost all they planted. Each child who received trees was required to fill out a slip giving his name and address, and the place where the tree was planted. The trees in public places will be labeled when they have grown somewhat larger.

The town is now dotted with these little "century trees," which have become the pride of those who planted them.

Toasted Wheat Flakes

The Ideal Summer Food

Don't worry about the high price of meat. It's merely common sense not to eat heavy, greasy meats on these hot summer days. Eat EGG-O-SEE, toasted whole wheat flakes. EGG-O-SEE is better than the best meat—better to the taste and more nourishing. It's easy to digest, sustaining and cooling. Much cheaper.
